One day, I was walking in the forest with my friend, Ali. The weather was cloudy, but it wasn't raining. So my friend suggested taking a rest under the trees to have some sandwiches and soft drinks. We were happy to watch birds and animals like elephants, monkeys and giraffes. It started to rain and I told Ali that we had to hide in a cave till the rain stops, so we can return home. When we entered the cave, we saw a tiger. It was very big, so we cried and ran away. While we were running, I fell down and the tiger attacked me. I heard an alarm clock clicking. I opened my eyes to find myself in bed. It was a bad dream.

2. Comprehension:

Read the following and answer the questions:

Every schoolchild knows that the River Nile is the longest river in the world, and that it was very important in ancient Egypt. It is still important nowadays for both farming and tourism. It doesn't rain a lot in Egypt, so farmers take water from the Nile. In summer the snow melts on the mountains of Ethiopia and Central Africa and rain falls. The two branches of the Nile, the Blue Nile and the White Nile, fill with water.

Once this flood was very important for watering the fertile land beside the river. Now the Aswan Dam holds back the water. Behind it is Lake Nasser, which is 500 kilometers long. Farmers use the water from the lake for their fields all year round. Now the land can grow more crops, and water reaches more places. The dam also produces electricity.

A) Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

- The Nile was important
 - for ancient Egypt only
 - for Ethiopia and Central Africa
 - only to hold back water in the past
 - in ancient Egypt as well as it is nowadays
- Egyptian farmers depend mainly on to get water.
 - rain
 - the river Nile
 - melting snow
 - the Blue Nile

B) Answer the following in complete sentences:

- How do the Blue Nile and White Nile fill with water?
- Mention two advantages of the High Dam.

II. Comprehension:

My friend Ahmed has always been fat, but things got so bad that he decided to go on a diet. He began his diet a week ago. First of all, he wrote out a long list of all the foods which were forbidden. This list included most of the things he loves, butter, potatoes, rice, milk, chocolate and sweets. Yesterday I paid him a visit. I rang the bell and was not surprised to see that Ahmed was still fat. He led me into his room and hurriedly hid a large parcel under his desk. It was clear that he was embarrassed. When I asked him what he was doing, he smiled and then put the parcel on the desk. He explained that his diet was so strict that he had to reward himself occasionally. The parcel contained five large bars of chocolate and three bags of sweets.

A) Answer these questions:

1. Why did Ahmed decide to go on a diet?
2. What did Ahmed write?
3. Why wasn't the writer surprised?
